A close-up, low-angle shot of a woman's arm and hand reaching towards the bottom of a dark, closed window blind. The hand is positioned near the bottom rail of the blind, with fingers slightly curled. The background is dark and textured, with the horizontal slats of the blind visible. The lighting is soft, highlighting the skin of the arm and hand.

A person wearing a black bikini is in a bathroom. The scene is tinted with a warm, pinkish-red color. The background features a wall of small, dark square tiles. A white bathtub is visible, with a chrome faucet and a handheld showerhead. Several bottles of toiletries are on a shelf behind the tub. The person's arm and part of their back are visible on the left side of the frame.

CHARLY DESOUBRY

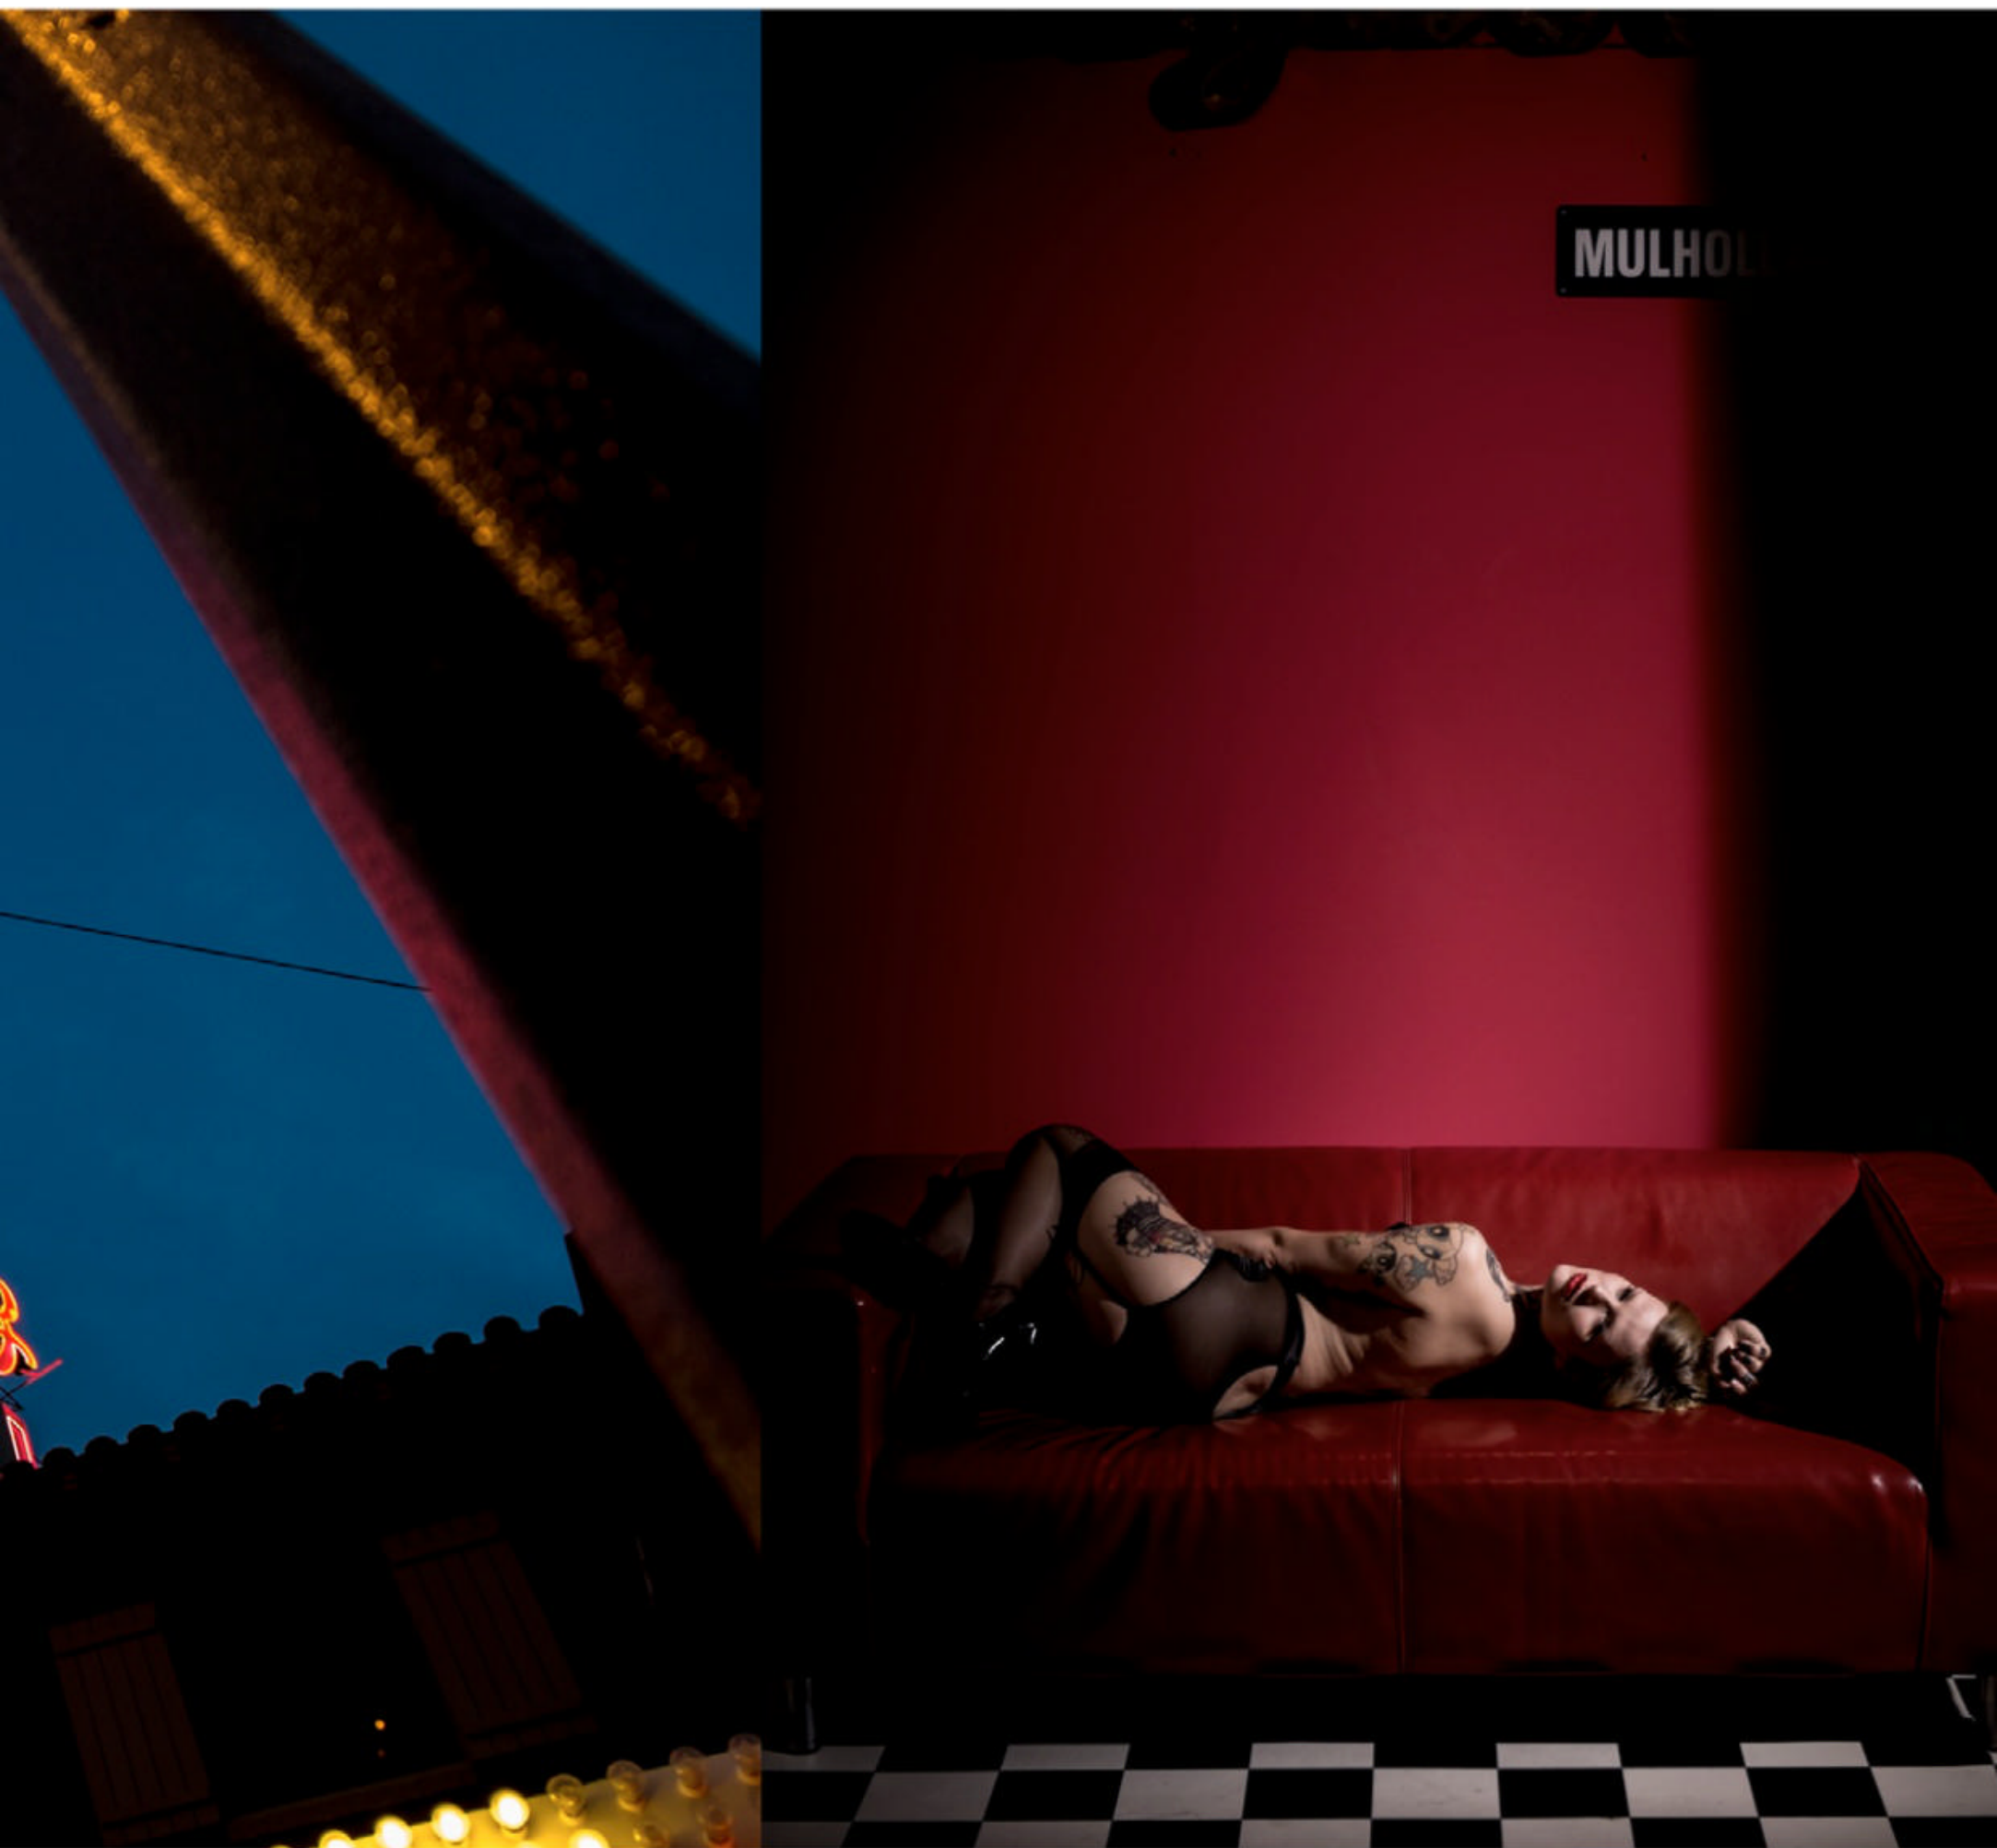

“Testing is my driving force whether by the video, the image or by the reappropriation of old techniques of photography (Polaroids, analog...) Over the last years I worked a lot on a more manual method, like for my photo comic book 'Bunnywoman' I don't like photoshop so I really work on the photoshoot itself instead of the post production on computer. Just like in a lab.
